Atlantic City Library Celebrates Black History Month

Those who visit the Main Library – located at 1 North Tennessee Ave. – this month will see some new additions in celebration of Black History Month. The banner highlights three prominent African Americans in Atlantic City history: Sara Spencer Washington, William K. Cheatham and Dr. Amaza Lockett. Inside the library, there are 20 posters on display with photos and text of local African-American individuals or organizations that have impacted Atlantic City. Some of featured posters include: Club Harlem, JoAnna LaSane, John Henry “Pop” Lloyd and Mayor James L. Ustry. For those who want to look for all 20 posters, stop by the Help Desk for a checklist. The library also has posters at its Richmond Branch (4115 Ventnor Ave.) and at City Hall. The poster photos and text are from the library’s Atlantic City Heritage Collections. In addition to viewing the posters at one of the library locations or City Hall, they will be available on the Heritage Collections’ Facebook and Instagram pages. The library staff has also created special displays with books and movies related to Black History Month – and there many more resources available to the public online. The library will hold another of its Black Stories Matter: Virtual Book Club programs in February. The club will meet via Zoom on Feb. 27 at 4 p.m. Please call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3075, to register for the program and receive a free copy of that month’s featured book, while supplies last.

FROM THE HEART OF ATLANTIC COUNTY MAGAZINE

Girl Abroad by Elle Kennedy

New York Times bestselling author Elle Kennedy delivers tension, plot twists, and a dose of humor in her latest novel, Girl Abroad, the author's newest standalone offering. This fun & lively tale takes place – you guessed it- abroad (London, to be specific) and is centered around Abby Bly, a former rock star's daughter who has been kept under close watch up until her semester abroad.

Cutting loose from a strict upbringing, Abby finds herself in scandals, romantic entanglements, and unexpected adventures as she meets a new cast of characters in the UK. Finally free from her father's fame & strict rules, Abbey meets twists & turns aplenty in the form of an unexpected love interest (did we mention he's her roommate?), a mysterious scandal featuring a high-profile British family, and a love triangle she didn't see coming.

A Love Song for Ricki Wilde by Tia Williams

Tia Williams, bestselling author of Seven Days in June has returned to tell an enchanting story of history, art and one life-changing February. Emily Henry calls this one "Funny, sexy, and breathtakingly romantic".

In modern Harlem, where the magic and effects of the Renaissance still linger, Ricki Wilde moves into a brownstone and hopes for a chance at a fresh beginning. Now that she's left behind her socialite family who are members of a powerful Atlanta dynasty, her dream to open a flower shop can finally come true.

When Ricki encounters a mysterious musician with whom her life is uniquely and irreversibly linked, her world is knocked off balance.

Highly-Anticipated New Releases, Just in Time for Valentine's Day

The Catch by Amy Lea

"Overboard", anyone? The Catch starts with a meet-cute right out of a rom-com movie. An uptight Boston fashion influencer meets a grumpy, gruff fisherman in this opposites-attract feel-good piece of fiction, the latest from author Amy Lea.

In an attempt to bring herself back into the spotlight, influencer Melanie Karlsen heads to a rural Canadian fishing village for some serious 'me time' – plus photo-ops. She certainly isn't expecting to butt heads with Evan, a burly and bearded fisherman with a bad attitude who just happens to own the inn where she's staying.

The plot thickens when a boating accident renders Evan unconscious – just long enough for his family to get the wrong end of the stick, and mistake Melanie for his fiance. As we come to find out, Mel & Evan both have a few things to gain by going along with this unexpected misunderstanding and decide to play along. Cue the cozy campfires, romantic strolls through nature, and love 'in the wild', and these two may not be pretending for much longer.

The Spy and I by Tiana Smith

If you're looking to raise your heart rate in more ways than one, this spy romance from debut author Tiana Smith will do just the trick.

Dove Barkley is on the run, roped into a dangerous government mission. The only issue? They've mistaken her for her sister, an actual undercover CIA operative – but it's too late now that Dove is involved. Now, she's paired up with Mendez, her sister's partner who she's not quite sure she can trust. But Mendez is smart, capable, and distractingly attractive.

With a team of trained assassins after her, evidence that can help prevent a national tragedy, and a growing suspicion of Mendez, can Dove step into her sister's shoes and protect what's important?

PPAWS - People & Puppies at Work for Sight "MEET THE PACK!"

Talk about making a PAWS-itive impact!

Becoming a puppy raiser or sitter makes a difference not only in those matched with a Seeing Eye dog but also allows you to join a community like no other. Seeing Eye puppy clubs consist of people of all ages and walks of life who all share the desire to help others.

A puppy raiser is the primary caretaker for a Seeing Eye puppy for about one year. A puppy sitter is someone who is available to help care for a puppy for short periods of time (typically for a night or weekend) when their primary caretaker cannot. This is a great way to get started in puppy raising, or to help out if you cannot commit to raising a puppy full time. We could not continue our mission without all our amazing volunteer puppy raisers and sitters.

If you are interested in joining our puppy raising community, please visit seeingeye.org/raise

PD: A collage shows photos of a yellow Lab/golden retriever cross puppy sound asleep in a Seeing Eye staff member's arms, a German shepherd wearing a Seeing Eye puppy raising bandana sitting amidst daffodils with his head tilted, a young girl with the black Lab/golden retriever cross puppy she is raising sitting at her side, and a group shot of a puppy club sitting together at a park with puppies of all breeds. Text reads, "Join Our Family – Raise a Seeing Eye Puppy – seeingeye.org/raise"

PPAWS (People & Puppies at Work for Sight) is a dedicated group of local families from Atlantic and Cape May Counties, which raise these amazing puppies for The Seeing Eye. Until a Seeing Eye dog is ready for training, he or she lives with a puppy raising or foster family that gives the dog love, gentle guidance, and consistent care. These volunteers nurture their puppy to accomplish its special destiny. If you are interested in raising a puppy for The Seeing Eye, call Peter at (609)804-8774 or visit seeingeye.org/raise for info.

The Solution to Feeding the World Lies in the Cold Chain

(NewsUSA) - Amidst worldwide headwinds experienced in recent years, supply chain resilience across industries has taken center stage in a global conversation. Pivotal to these discussions is examining how to create a more food-secure future for everyone, everywhere. Have you ever wondered how the food on your table gets there? Most people have heard of the supply chain, but "the cold chain" is less commonly known. In its simplest terms, the cold chain is responsible for ensuring cold food, such as meat, poultry, produce and dairy, is safely stored and transported through the "middle mile" – from growers and producers to manufacturers and retailers, and ultimately, to your plate.

However, moving food in this manner is no small feat – with a growing population set to reach 9.7 billion by 2050 (United Nations [U.N.]), the efficiency and reliability of the cold chain is more important than ever in helping feed the world. Fortunately, the world already produces enough food to feed 10 billion people, according to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization [FAO].

"With a current world population of 8 billion as reported by the U.S. Census Bureau, yet 9.6 billion tons of agricultural crop, livestock commodities and food produced annually, according to FAO, the challenge of feeding the world isn't a matter of food availability; rather, it is about accessibility and creating a system capable of transporting and storing food where it is needed most," said Elliott Wolf, VP & Chief Data Scientist, Lineage.

Reframing perceptions of food availability vs. accessibility

Across the globe, approximately 12 percent of food produced globally is lost due to an insufficient cold chain (International Institute of Refrigeration). Every year, more than one third of all food produced spoils before it can be sold, with fruits and vegetables making up the most of this spoilage (Rockefeller Foundation).

"Cold chain infrastructure is changing the food loss paradigm by establishing the essential global facility networks and transportation structures to move and store food to communities across the globe," said Wolf.

The history of keeping food fresh and safe

The cold chain is an old industry. People have been keeping food cold as long as we've been able – first with ice and now with electricity. As more people moved farther away from food sources and into growing cities in the 19th century, the need to keep perishable food safe grew, spurring 20th century innovations. In 1913, Fred W. Wolf invented the first home electric refrigerator (Energy Saver, U.S. Department of Energy), and in the 1940s, Frederick McKinley Jones designed the first refrigeration unit for trucks to keep food fresh in transit (Lemelson-MIT Program).

The modern cold chain has helped lead strides in global nutrition, but access to effective refrigeration is still a leading contributor to the challenge of feeding the world. In 2009, the International Institute of Refrigeration estimated over 200 million tons of food waste could be saved annually if developing countries acquired the same cold chain capacities as those in developed countries (FAO 2019 State of Food and Agriculture).

The modern global cold chain is taking on the challenge of distributing food to all corners of the world – 197 million square miles a day – and ensuring it stays safe.

A smarter, more reliable and sustainable cold chain

The next frontier of the cold chain lies in digitizing, automating, driving sustainability and elevating the industry to go further in its mission to feed the world, driving those same improvements to more communities and new markets around the globe.

The modern cold chain is working to make the unpredictable, predictable. The implementation of machine learning algorithms has ushered in a new era of efficiency and optimization in warehouse operations, harnessing automation, and its ability to transform our environments to meet every need of an ever-growing population.

Why does automation in the cold chain matter to you? Think of the last time you heard about a spinach or chicken recall on the news, for example. Computer visioning technology automatically scans labels to help track all products in the warehouse, meaning that in case of a recall situation, companies and their customers can act immediately to destroy any recalled product to keep consumers safe.

Today's cold chain also plays an important role as a steward of sustainability. Estimates suggest that 8-10% of global greenhouse gas emissions are associated with food that is not consumed (United Nations Environment Programme). With rising global awareness on energy conservation and corporate commitments to achieving net-zero carbon emissions by 2040, the middle mile is key not only to meaningful reduction of food waste but also accompanying greenhouse gas emissions.

Lineage, one of the world's leading temperature-controlled warehousing and integrated solutions providers, is at the center of the cold chain, with billions of cubic feet in cold storage across hundreds of facilities around the world. In 2021, Lineage took a big step toward helping to preserve the planet by signing The Climate Pledge – and the commitment that comes with it to achieve net-zero carbon emissions by 2040.

From investing in renewable energy sources like solar to retrofitting older buildings to be more energy efficient or taking steps towards more sustainable transportation solutions, Lineage is leveraging tech innovation to become more sustainable.

At Lineage, the pivot from the traditional ways and methods of the cold chain demanded long-term planning and a serious commitment to technology. To make food accessible to everyone worldwide – 197 million square miles a day – we need the most connected food chain on the planet. That's why Lineage continues to rise to new challenges, seek out new solutions in tech innovation, and work together to feed the world.

MORE ABOUT PRO PLAN AND QUESTIONABLE PET FOOD INGREDIENTS

REPRINTED FROM PREVIOUS EDITION

Submitted by Patsy Nelson
from The Wagging Tail

Immediately after my last article went into publication, I got an email from one company's representative with whom we deal-but not in commercial food products. This email was sent to all their retailers pertaining to the "rumors" about sick and dying pets who ate Pro Plan. Purina denied these rumors to be relevant, even suggesting some kind of conspiracy against the company. Even if they are rumors, which have not been proven yet, it does not negate the poor ingredients used, and the misrepresentation in their ads and packaging, beguiling customers into erroneous conceptions of noble, clean (not full of crap), healthy pet food.

The bag of food pictured in the article last week was Purina Dog Chow on which there is a plate of sliced chicken, yet the bag only includes some "chicken flavor." And they state in their full-page ad in Reader's Digest that the food (more like feed) has high-quality protein, no fillers and is 100% complete nutrition. The truth is that gluten and grain-based ingredients like rice, corn, wheat, and soy and vegetable by-products are fillers which means that they don't add any nutritional value but increase the volume/bulk of the bag of food. Meat By-products are not used in better quality pet food, but they can provide protein in the form of lungs, kidneys, liver, brains, and fatty tissue. If an ingredient panel on a bag of food starts with a protein like chicken, it must contain 95 percent of chicken (or salmon etc.) This main product must be at least 70% of the total products when counting the added water. Any meat meal is made up of remaining animal parts like extra meat, connective tissue, and offal (internal organs) and cooked at high temperatures before being made into a protein-packed powder, then made into meal.

(According to JustFoodForDogs.) Corn and wheat can lead to allergies and obesity (becoming sugar.) Soy is a filler "responsible for a huge portion of pet allergies that can result in sneezing, itching, swelling, anaphylactic shock, and death." (From another source on fillers.) The ingredients in Pro Plan chicken formula includes Rice, Whole grain wheat, Poultry by-product meal, Corn gluten meal, Whole grain corn, Wheat bran-all within the first seven ingredients. The top three to avoid when feeding your dogs (or cats) are corn, wheat, and soy. According to my google quest, PetSmart charges $69.48 for a 35lb bag of Pro Plan Adult Chicken formula, which contains all these negative fillers and allergen producers. We sell Fromm Adult Gold Chicken (30 lbs. of all good ingredients by a five-generation family-owned Wisconsin company.) They don't advertise so they don't spend money on anything but making great dog and cat food. (The same goes for the other foods we sell.) The ingredients do not have any corn, wheat, soy or by-products, or anything else that is not good quality pet food. And this grain-inclusive food, not like the Pro Plan mentioned above, has flaxseed, menhaden fish meal, Wisconsin cheese, duck, lamb, carrots, sweet potatoes, and probiotics. The price is $52.99, more than fifteen dollars less, and we track your purchases, so your 13th bag is free. The Fromm Company has (and we carry) over 40 varieties in just cat and dog and in various sizes. And all our food, any brand, is 100% guaranteed that your pet will love it and thrive, or your money back.

AGAIN, PLEASE PROTECT YOUR PET FROM CHILLY RAIN, WINDS, SNOW AND TEMPERATURES (EVEN IF IT IS COOL IN YOUR HOUSE.) IF YOU COVER UP, YOUR DOG SHOULD BE COVERED-UP. A HOUSE DOG DOES NOT GROW A WINTER COAT. YOU NEED TO BE SMART. Dogs suffer from joint pain and in cold temperatures the joint fluid may thicken creating more pain and the onset of or degree of arthritis.

Thank you for helping a small business stay in business.
Check out our on-premises cat shelter.

YOGA POSE OF THE WEEK - Reverse Warrior (Viparita Virabhadrasana)

Reverse Warrior shares a similar stance to Warrior I and incorporates a slight heart-opening side bend or optional backbend.

To stay steady in the posture, it's essential to root into the sole of the front foot, anchor the outside edge of the back foot, and engage the glutes and hamstrings.

Focus your gaze up toward the palm as it reaches overhead. Keep your front knee tracking over your ankle as you sink deeper into the hips.

VITAMIN HIGHLIGHT - Iron

Iron is important in making red blood cells, which carry oxygen around the body. A lack of iron can lead to iron deficiency anaemia. Good sources of iron include: liver (but avoid this during pregnancy); red meat; beans, such as red kidney beans, edamame beans and chickpeas; nuts; dried fruit – such as dried apricots; fortified breakfast cereals; soy bean flour/

FROM THE HEART OF ATLANTIC COUNTY MAGAZINE

Wintry weather, gray skies, snow and sleet can limit visibility on the road, and a damaged or cracked windshield can make driving even more challenging.

When the temperature drops, the risks of damage to the windshield goes up. Can cold weather alone crack a windshield? Not exactly. However, while extreme cold alone might not crack a well-installed and maintained windshield, it can exacerbate existing issues or create conditions that may lead to cracks. Essentially, cold weather can cause a windshield to crack and break if it is already chipped, cracked, or fractured due to the acute weather change.

Auto Glass Now, one of the fastest growing glass repair and replacement companies, offers drivers tips to protect their vehicle against the set of unique challenges winter weather brings to the durability and maintenance of their windshield.

Common Causes of Windshield Cracks in Cold Weather

Knowing the factors that make the windshield more susceptible to damage and cracks in cold weather will help drivers protect and properly maintain it. If the windshield is already compromised by previous damage, poor installation or inadequate maintenance, these issues can worsen dramatically in cold conditions. Some of the most common causes of cracks during colder months include:

- Ice: Ice formation can apply undue pressure to small existing chips or imperfections, leading them to expand into full-blown cracks.
- Road Salt: While road salt is often necessary to keep roads safe, it can be kicked up into the windshield at high speeds. This causes small craters or pits that can worsen into cracks when not addressed quickly.
- Hail: Winter storms often bring hail, which may strike the windshield with enough force to cause immediate cracks or create weak spots that later transition into cracks.
- Frozen Wiper Fluid: Using a wiper fluid that freezes easily can cause localized stress on the windshield, which could turn into cracks over time.

CAN COLD WEATHER CRACK OR DAMAGE YOUR WINDSHIELD?

- Temperature Fluctuations: Glass expands and contracts with temperature changes. Rapid swings from cold to hot (or vice versa) can cause a windshield to crack.

How to Prevent Windshield Damage during Colder Weather

While a windshield can crack from cold weather due to other factors, drivers can take a proactive approach to prevent damage during colder temperatures, including:

- Keeping Windshield Wipers in Good Condition: Worn-out and dirty wiper blades can scratch the windshield, making it more susceptible to cracking. Therefore, it's essential to routinely clean the windshield wipers - and replace them at least once every 12 months to keep them in good condition.
- Never Using Hot Water to Clear Ice/Snow Off the Windshield: While it may seem convenient at the time, using hot water to clear ice and snow from the windshield causes rapid temperature changes, leading to cracks.
- Utilizing the Car's Defrost System: Defrost systems are designed to gradually increase the glass temperature, reducing the risk of cracks.
- Parking under Cover If Possible: A simple solution for protecting the windshield from the elements is parking in a garage or under a carport.
- Closing Doors Gently: Slamming car doors can cause vibrations that may lead to windshield cracks, especially if the windshield is already damaged.
- Using a Windshield Protector: Windshield covers can keep ice and snow off the glass, reducing the risk of cracks and making it easier to prep the vehicle for the drive ahead.
- Using a Proper Ice Scraper: Choose an ice scraper specifically designed for car windshields to minimize the risk of scratching or cracking the glass.

"Winter weather presents challenging times for windshields. But proper preventative care and maintenance can make a world of difference," said Nick Ouimet, President of Auto Glass Now. "Our local Auto Glass Now teams here to help ensure drivers are safe on the road with quality glass repair and replacement." Visit AutoGlassNow.com to learn more.
